

Faculty of History and Geography

<Unknown label>

The Faculty of History and Geography employs 35 teacher-researchers, offering a general course up to until Masters level when it becomes specialised. It has two associated research centres recognised by the Ministry.

img_1297762801066.jpg

Address

Chemin DU THIL 80025 AMIENS CEDEX 1 FRANCE Tel. 03.22.82.73.33 Fax 03.22.82.73.32

Academic Programs

The Faculty of History and Geography issues a Bachelors Degree in history after three years of study (with 4 sections from the third semester onwards : advanced history, history-geography, archeology, human science) and a Bachelors Degree in geography (with 2 sections : environment, geography-history). It is possible to take a professional Bachelors Degree in heritage, environment and tourism, open on application to students having followed the first four semesters of the bachelors degree course, or having a BTS certificate. It also offers three Masters Degrees : - The phenomena of war, past and present, law, political science, medecine, history (research specialism : the phenomena of war in the west from antiquity to present day; professional specialism : Evaluating intervention in contemporary crises and conflicts.) - Culture, identity, territory and trading (in collaboration with the Faculty of Languages) (research specialism : ancient history, medieval, modern and contemporary ; research and professional specialism : ancient and medieval archeology.) - Careers in archiving and applied technology (speciality - professional, from September 2005) Masters Degrees in history may be awarded to students having validated 240 credits (ie. one year of masters study following three years of a bachelors degree).

Additional informations

learn more about...