

Presidency

The president is elected by the Administration Council, the Scientific Council, and the Council of Studies and University Life.

He is chosen from teacher-researchers at the university for a 5-year term. He may not be re-elected in the five years following the end of his term.

His role

The President is head of the university.

- He is the university representative

- He authorises expenditure and income

- He presides over the three councils and acts on their decisions

- He has authority over the whole of the university staff

- He appoints the examiners

- He is in charge of maintaining order and may call on authorities charged with public order under certain legal conditions